LAW PROPOSED CREATING STATE INDUSTRY COURT

To Settle Fairly Walkouts
And Strikes Is Aim Of
New Equity Plan

Hundreds of bills were introduced into the state Assembly and Senate this week, and the Legislature recessed today till March 1.

A chain store tax bill was filed in the lower house. The proposed measure is similar to the one introduced last session and fixes a tax on all chain establishments, including oil stations and theaters.

INDUSTRIAL COURT

Another measure introduced would prevent labor strikes and lockouts by creating a state industrial court with arbitrary powers and the right to call upon all law enforcement agencies, including the national guard, to carry out its decisions.

Author of the measure advocates a court of seven members—three representing employers, three labor and the seventh to be selected by the other six members.

The six members would be appointed by the governor, subject to confirmation of the Senate, and paid a salary of $8,000 yearly.

WOULD OUTLAW STRIKES

Under terms of the measure all strikes and lockouts would be unlawful and all labor disputes would have to be submitted to the court for equity.

In addition to a deluge of new bills, reports of various committees were filed with the Assembly and Senate.

G. G. STRUCTURE SCHEDULED FOR OPENING IN MAY

Spectacular Celebration Has Promise To Reverberate
Around The World

The completion next May of the great Golden Gate Bridge, longest suspension span ever constructed, will be the signal for a spectacular four day celebration in San Francisco, which promises to echo around the world.

Sweeping majestically across the San Francisco Golden Gate entrance, through which the Argonauts first glimpsed the land of their golden hopes 88 years ago, this gigantic bridge will be among the most impressively beautiful structures built by man.

The Golden Gate Bridge Fiesta, as the opening celebration will be known, is aimed to eclipse anything of its kind ever seen in the West, and plans already advanced call for a series of brilliant and colorful land, water and aerial pageantry and other activities for four wondrous days and nights.

CARNIVAL SPIRIT

The carnival spirit, so symbolic of early California, will reign supreme during the happy, care-free fiesta, but at the same time the main purpose and reason for the bridge will not be overlooked—that of bringing San Francisco closer to its golden outdoor land of opportunity.

The celebration is to be international in scope, for the $35,000,000 bridge will break the last major water barrier to the north of San Francisco and offer a continuous highway between Canada and Mexi-

DON AMES

MEMORIES OF A VAGABOND: I read in a recent edition of a San Francisco daily newspaper where ex-President Plutarco Calles of Mexico, exiled to the United States, said all dictatorships were doomed within the next few years. The report stated that Calles was interviewed by a national press agency.

Technically, Calles was not personally interviewed unless the reporter spoke Spanish. Plutarco Calles does not speak English! His interpreter is a son-in-law.

During the summer of 1935, ex-President Calles vacationed at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel in Honolulu. It was my good fortune to interview him through his son-in-law.

At the time Mexico's "Iron Man" would not discuss politics or Mexican affairs. Calles spent much of his time on the golden sands at Waikiki.

School Auditorium Bid Gets Approval

Hopes loomed this week for early construction of an auditorium at Visitation Valley School following approval by the board of education of bids on the project.

Low bid accepted was that of De Luca & Sons for $24,772. The bid will be transmitted to the board of public works for awarding of contract and arrangement for start of construction.

Roosevelt Inaugurated for Second Term of Office

"To provide enough for those who have too little" was the keynote of the inaugural address given by President Roosevelt as he formally opened his second term of office, Wednesday of this week.

To a rain drenched crowd in the capitol plaza the President pointed out imperative needs for directing forces of government to cope with the complexities of modern civilization. "Blind economic forces and blindly selfish men" must be controlled and directed, he declared.

To arouse the interest and concern of every citizen in federal government and social welfare will be

Men Trapped In Coast House Fire

Volunteer fire fighters of Rockaway Beach, led by their chief Jim Troglia, were nearly trapped while rescuing pets from a blazing four room cottage, Tuesday of this week. Choked and blinded by the smoke, the men narrowly escaped with their lives.

The blaze razed the cottage, occupied by Mrs. Josephine Lack, 65, better known to Rockaway Beach residents at "the lady of the pets."

PETS SAVED

Her pets, dogs, cats and rabbits were saved by firemen and turned over to state humane officers.

Mrs. Lack's cottage is situated in a canyon at Rockaway. At about 6 o'clock Tuesday morning the aged woman was startled by crackling of the flames. She rescued as many of her pets as possible.

A strong wind fanned the fire into greater proportions.

Then Chief Troglia, organizer of the Rockaway department, and his volunteer fire fighters arrived.

IMPLORES FIREMEN

"Save my pets," begged Mrs. Lack. Into the blazing cottage went firemen, choking and blinded by smoke. They saved all the pets.

COUNTY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS ASK AID OF STATE

Widening Of El Camino
Real South Of City Of Redwood

San Mateo County Board of Supervisors moved, Monday of this week, to support the widening of El Camino Real south of Redwood City after Supervisor James S. James of Burlingame and his successor as county engineer, U. S. Marshall, engaged in a near clash.

The supervisors, at their weekly session, decided to join the central coast counties division of the State Chamber of Commerce in urging the state highway commission to include an appropriation in the 1936-37 biennial budget for the project.

The highway committee, yet to be appointed by Chairman Hugh H. Smith of Daly City, will attend a meeting of the state chamber road committee in Salinas next month when plans will be mapped for appearing before the State Highway Commission in behalf of the claims and other projects.

Three Bayshore Deaths Unrecorded

The much publicized record traffic death toll of San Mateo County now stands at 80 instead of 77, a survey conducted by engineers of a major utilities company disclosed late last week.

The three additional deaths, previously never recorded, involved motorists injured on the highways who died in San Francisco hospitals. All were on Bayshore highway and in unincorporated territory.

The survey which brought to light the three additional fatalities was conducted by Engineers William P. Bear and S. M. Michaels of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company. None of San Mateo County newspapers, including three dailies, had any record of the deaths.

27 ON BAYSHORE ALONE

The revised figures brought to 27 the number of fatal accidents on Bayshore highway during the year, or an all-time high mark for the "most deadly" highway in California.

The records of County Coroner William Crosby show 13 traffic fatalities for San Mateo County during the year. However, four of the deaths were previously accounted for as one of the victims died after being taken to the Palo Alto Hospital and three others injured in the county died in San Francisco County.

The records of Coroner T. B. W. Leland of San Francisco showed that six persons, hurt in San Mateo

FIVE PERSONS ARE HURT SUNDAY IN BAD AUTO CRASH ON BAYSHORE MILE OVER SAN MATEO COUNTY LINE

Head Of Meat Firm Wounded
When Machine Strikes
Rear Of Parked Car

In the most serious auto accident in San Mateo County last week and which occurred Sunday evening on Bayshore highway five persons were injured, one of them critically.

A car driven by Henry Danz, 53, head of the San Mateo Meat Company at Bayshore and Nineteenth, crashed into a parked car near the Pacific Bone Coal and Fertilizing Company, according to State Patrolmen Walter Sequera and Louis Rinkel, who investigated.

Danz was taken to Mission Emergency Hospital, San Francisco, where he was treated for a possible fractured nose and knee. His wife, Ellen, 54, was treated for a fractured left arm and elbow. Marie Bond, 54, also of San Mateo, was treated for a possible fractured right arm. The trio was transferred to Mills Memorial Hospital after receiving emergency treatment.

Other passengers in the Danz car, William Ford, 54, and his wife, Catherine Ford, 44, of San Francisco, were taken to South San Francisco Hospital.

Ford incurred a compound fracture of the skull and a laceration of the forehead. His wife was nearly scalped as a result of the accident, hospital attendants being required to take numerous stitches to close an ugly scalp wound that extended from ear to ear.

Outcome of an accident Saturday night of last week, on Bayshore highway near Brisbane, recorded three persons, including George Haag, 53, 1021 El Camino Real, Burlingame, treated at South San Francisco Hospital. Haag incurred lacerations of the nose and right upper eyelid.

There's No Harm Asking Questions Nor Answerin' 'Em

THERE'S no harm in asking: Who held the featherweight championship of the world for eleven years?

What celebrated American sportsman was expelled from France when only sixteen years old?

Who were the two men who persuaded the Football Rules committee to adopt the forward pass? When? What major eleven first made the best-publicized use of the pass?

What wrestling match created one of the most enduring of all international sports controversies?

What was the youngest combination of golfer and caddy ever to win a national championship?

Can you name the infield combination that had the greatest success for the world famous Old (Baltimore) Orioles?

Who was the American who won an Olympic championship in an event in which he never had competed previously?

What tennis player was ranked among the first ten during nineteen of the twenty years which elapsed between his first ranking and his retirement from major tournament play?

And probably there's even less harm in answering:

Johnny Kilbane. He won the title from Abe Killeb on February 22, 1912, and lost it to Eugene Criqui on June 2, 1923.

Willie Hoppe, the billiard champion, who then was making the first of his very successful foreign appearances. The French government decided there was too much betting on billiard exhibitions. When the court ruled that such affairs were games of skill rather than of chance the government nevertheless advised all foreign players to take quick leave of the country.

Willie Hoppe

Naturally this was merely a bureaucratic display of red-taped petulance and Hoppe has many times been France's honored guest.

John C. Bell of Pennsylvania and Paul J. Dashiell of the Naval Academy in January, 1906. In the Harvard game that year a Yale pass resulted in a 30-yard gain which reached the Crimson three-yard mark. From this point a most important touchdown soon was achieved. In 1907 two long forward passes largely contributed to a Yale victory after the Elis had trailed Princeton by ten points.

The Gotch-Hackenschmidt match in Chicago in 1908. After two hours Hackenschmidt walked out of the ring, thus relinquishing his world championship. He claimed that Gotch had almost gouged out his eyes and that the American was so well covered with oil that it was almost the same as trying to grapple with a "well-buttered eel."

When Francis Ouimet won the U. S. Open after the playoff with Vardon and Ray in 1913 he was twenty years old. His caddy, Eddie Lowery, was ten years old.

Doyle, 1b; Reitz, 2b; Jennings, ss; McGraw, 3b.

Robert Garrett of Baltimore. He was captain of the Princeton track team and decided to go to the first Olympic Games in Athens. Shortly before sailing he heard that discus hurling—then unknown to American track and field enthusiasts—was to be included on the program. Since he was a weight thrower he had a friend fashion him a discus which sketchily resembled the one to be used in the games. Garrett practiced with it for a week or so and at Athens far outclassed the Greek champion, Paraskevopoulos, in his own country and at his own game.

William A. Larned. He was ranked sixth in 1892. From then on until he retired in 1912 he was ranked first eight years, second five years, third four years and fifth one year. The only year he missed out was in 1898. During that season he was helping the Rough Riders.

Johnny Evers says Ed Delenanty hit a ball harder than Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig or Jimmy Foxx. . . . Eleanor Holm Jarrett has not been defeated by an American swimmer in eight years. . . . The first padded ring ever used in boxing was set up at Brooklyn in 1882 for a bout between Sammy Kelly and Bob Cunningham. . . . Harry Speelman, Dutch tackle on Charlie Bachman's Michigan State eleven, is having a hard time explaining his selection on an all-Jewish team.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

BOSTON experts are tabbing young Austie Harding, Harvard's soph forward, as the best prospect in the Three Eye (International Intercollegiate Ice) Hockey League. . . . Toronto is doped as the team that will win the league's first pennant. . . . The besetting boyhood ambition of Freddy Steele was to become a racetrack starter. Instead he used his strong arms to become middleweight champion of the world. . . . H. W. Wendler, who trains Major Ralph Sasse's very good Mississippi State football team, starred for three years on Ohio State's elevens. . . . Jockey Sammie Renick is an accomplished swimmer.

Hockey is not a major sport at Detroit university and letters are not awarded. Yet there are more candidates for the ice squad than there were for Gus Dorais' football outfit last fall. . . . Al G. Werly, assistant manager of Tropical Park who helped break the Jockey Don Meade case when he was on the Florida racing commission, was born and raised in Brooklyn's own Bensonhurst. . . . When the American Bowling Congress held its first tournament in Chicago in 1901 only forty-one teams entered. Next spring more than 20,000 bowlers will participate in the big event in New York.

Tom Thorp is doing so nobly as a Tropical Park steward that he is being boomed for a similar job on metropolitan tracks. . . . The bookies who were screaming about the tough going at local courses last summer now are dining upon caviar and pompano in Miami's swankiest spots.

How Prospect Eluded Marchie Schwartz

Maybe it's not true but this is the tale they tell about one of the best prospects on

Marchie Schwartz' Creighton football squad. He had to quit college because—his wife had never seen a street car before and was too, too scared of 'em. Incidentally Marchie, who saw service with Clarke Shaughnessy on the coaching staff at the University of Chicago before going to Creighton is prominently mentioned as successor to Ossie Solemn at the University of Iowa.

Bill Hewitt, all-star pro, end, really is serious about deserting the gridiron. One of the major railroads has offered him a high class job if he will abandon sports. . . . If sailors were not barred from having flat feet until they become admirals Navy might have had better football luck last fall. Vic Bottari, celebrated U. of California performer, did his best to enter the academy several seasons ago. . . . Although a picture of John L. Sullivan hangs in the office of the British Board of Boxing Control, Secretary Charles Donmall has carefully drawn a pencil through the words "Champion Pugilist of the World." That is because your cousins still think Charley Mitchell rated above the mighty Jaw. . . . Donmall, by the way, owns the patent on the boxing gloves used in British rings.

Bob Considine of Washington has joined the New York American's group of sports columnists. . . . Joe Malone, who continued in Joe Dundee's service for ten years, claims the world record for a prizefighter trainer lasting with a prizefighter. . . . The N. Y. (pro fb) Giants have made bids for End Gelatka and Tackle Pittman of the Mississippi State team that played Duquesne New Year's Day.

Horsemen with yearlings in their stables are racking their brains these days. About 5,000 horses are registered with the Jockey Club each year and the supply of pretty names is getting low. Incidentally you can't take second crack at one of the good old names until the original gee-gee has been dead at least five years. . . . Note to J. G.—A horse named Budwiser won a few races as a sixteen-year-old at Hot Springs some winters ago. He was bred by Barney Schreiber, the St. Louis bookmaker. . . . Note to N. T.—Jesse Owens' stunt of racing a horse is not new. In the old days of foot racing it was a common occurrence at county fairs. Also Andy Reese, who played baseball for the Giants a few seasons back, used to pick up winter money by sprinting against both horses and automobiles in his native Mississippi territory.

The Brooklyn Dodger strategy now is to get off to a fast start during the first month of the season. This accounts for the assembling of so many veterans who can frisk their aged props steadily for a week or two. The flop, even though the Eisenstadts, Bakers and Wilsons continue to improve as they did last season, will take place after the early season coconuts have been stored in the vaults. . . . Danny McFayden claims that his pitching success last season was due to the fact he was permitted to try new things and thus developed curves which he never previously had suspected himself of possessing. . . . Walter Hapgood, veteran minor league club president and business manager, has joined the baseball writing staff of the Boston Transcript.

Johnny Evers says Ed Delenanty hit a ball harder than Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig or Jimmy Foxx. . . . Eleanor Holm Jarrett has not been defeated by an American swimmer in eight years. . . . The first padded ring ever used in boxing was set up at Brooklyn in 1882 for a bout between Sammy Kelly and Bob Cunningham. . . . CALIFORNIA News of the Week

Sheep Destroying Desert Flowers

Indio.—Incensed over the threatened destruction of hundreds of acres of beautiful desert wild flowers by bands of sheep, Indio officials called on Riverside County authorities to put an immediate stop to the grazing. Said to belong to a Phoenix man the sheep were brought here by truck from Blythe and turned loose on the desert north of Indio in charge of Indian herders. The sheep, in two bands totaling more than 1000 head, have already grazed over several acres of blooming verbena, desert primrose and other flowers that are blooming in profusion this year for the first time since 1927.

249,593 Given Jobs In '36

Sacramento.—During 1936 the California State Employment Service placed 249,593 persons in jobs, paying prevailing rates of wages. The total placement figure exceeded the 1935 mark of 131,795 by 89 per cent. At the same time new applications received from workers, who visited the State-wide offices for the first time during the year, declined 27.2 per cent. The figures show 231,466 registrations were taken as against 386,496 in 1935.

California Lemons To Florida

Porterville.—Coals to Newcastle and California lemons to Florida. The Tulare County Lemon and Grapefruit Association, with headquarters here, already has shipped one car to Jacksonville. The association sold several cars of lemons to Florida points last winter, the movement being the first in history. The Spanish war and the Italian embargo on lemon shipments are believed responsible for the Florida purchases.

Duck Hunters Found Guilty

Sacramento.—Clarence Gridley and W. F. Wilcox, of Gridley, were found guilty by a federal jury of violating the migratory bird treaty act. Each was sentenced to six months in the county jail and fined $500 by U. S. District Judge Harold Louderback. Gridley and Wilcox were arrested two months ago for the unlawful possession of 514 ducks. Gridley's ancestors founded the town of Gridley.

Women To Show More of Legs

Hollywood.—Women this year will reveal more of their legs, the film colony's fashion designers have proclaimed to an anxious world. Style experts agree that dresses this Spring will be from fourteen to sixteen inches above the ground—shortening skirts from four to six inches. The change was decreed for variety in design and to achieve more of a trim effect in clothes.

Women Can Be Banned From Bars

Sacramento.—The legislature has the power to make laws barring women and children from entering places where liquor is sold, Attorney General Webb has ruled. He gave the opinion in answer to a question by Senator Swing, San Bernardino County, chairman of the legislative committee investigating intoxicating liquors. The committee filed a report deploring the patronage of bars, on an equal basis by women.

Protect Unemployment Act

Sacramento.—The Unemployment Reserves Act will be protected in the event the State legislature decides to sever connections with the federal government in regard to operation of the measure. Several bills to make the act operative on a State basis have been introduced in the legislature, if that body takes such action.

Man Arrested For Defamation

Oakland.—Postal inspectors arrested Juan Rosario, 37, accused of mailing cards "tending to defame the characters" of a number of prominent persons, including former President Herbert Hoover, United States Senator William G. McAdoo and Postmaster General James A. Farley.

Baby Eats Live Gold Fish

Escalon.—Buddy Hart, 11 months old, was rushed to a doctor with the explanation by his mother that the child had eaten three live gold fish.

Taft Votes Pool Bonds

Taft.—By a vote of 991 to 120, residents of Taft school district approved the issuance of $50,000 in bonds for construction of a swimming pool at Lincoln school.

Fruit Jar Blows Up

Alturas.—The accidental explosion of a jar of fruit which she was heating to thaw it out may cause Mrs. Chester D. Lowell to lose the sight of her left eye.

$75,000 Blaze Destroys School

San Mateo.—Fire, which is believed to have started from a cigarette thrown into a towel container, wiped out the Peninsula Grammar School here, with a damage estimated at $75,000. The spectacular blaze was battled by the combined fire departments of San Mateo, Burlingame and Belmont, under conditions rivaling a New York blizzard. An extremely low temperature of 20 degrees caused ice to form on firemen's clothes, hose lines, ladders and fire apparatus.

Seedless Peppers and Tomatoes Can Be Produced

Results of Treatment With Four Acids

ANN ARBOR, MICH. — Seedless tomatoes and peppers have been induced to form in unpollinated flowers by treating the fruit-producing parts, or ovaries, with any one of four different organic acids, Dr. Felix G. Gustafson of the University of Michigan has reported to the National Academy of Sciences through that body's official proceedings. Similar results were also obtained with the fruits and seedpods of a number of other vegetables and garden flowers.

While no immediate commercial application is contemplated, it is interesting to note that in the tomatoes at least the seedless specimens had very small seed-spaces—indeed in some of the smaller ones the flesh was completely solid. Immediate commercial exploitation is regarded as impracticable at present because each flower requires individual operation by a skilled botanist. The real significance of the experiments is the proof that fruit production without pollination is possible through the use of growth-promoting substances.

Four Acids Are Used

The chemicals used by Dr. Gustafson were indole-propionic acid, indole-butyric acid, indole - acetic acid, and phenylacetic acid. All of these have been used by a number of botanical researchers to promote the growth of stems, leaves, etc., on dormant plants and parts of plants. One, indole-acetic acid, has been found in extracts of plants and has been called heteroauxin because it acts in promoting growth like auxin, the natural growth-promoting substance.

Method of The Experiments

In the experiments, the stigma or natural pollen-receiving surface was cut off and the growth-promoting acid preparation smeared on the cut surface. From there it diffused into the unpollinated ovary and caused the development of all parts except the fertile seeds themselves. In some of the species used, seeds did develop, but when they were cut open they were found to be hollow, without the tiny embryo plant necessary for germination. In other cases, as in the seedless tomatoes, the fruits grew and ripened normally and did not contain even hollow seeds.

In all the experiments, parallel controls were carried through. This was done in two ways: by pollinating companion flowers to the ones under treatment, and by keeping others both untreated and unpollinated. The pollinated flowers developed fruits or pods with seeds, as was expected, while the unpollinated ones simply died and dropped off.

Dr. Gustafson sums up the results of his numerous experiments in two sentences: "The significance of these experiments seems to be that definite substances, which are not specific, cause the ovary of a flower to develop into the fruit. These substances seem to be closely related to the auxins."

Hydro-Electric Plant Built Under Water

BERLIN.—A hydro-electric power plant built entirely under water is the new and unique boast of the town of Rostin in Pomerania. There is no powerhouse on the bank, no visible structure anywhere; everything lies in midstream below the dam, and the electricians come and go through tunnels.

The underwater powerhouse is a by-product of a flood problem set by the Persante river. Its early spring freshets, bearing rafts of battering ice, formerly flooded many acres of fertile land. To reclaim this land the river's meandering course was straightened and shortened, and a low dam was built near Rostin.

The dam suggested power development, though no great head of water was available. Furthermore, if a powerhouse of conventional type were set up it would be a target for the spring ice jams. So the powerhouse was set on the river-bed on the downstream side of the dam, with its roof gradually sloped to permit flood-water, ice, and any floating debris to slide harmlessly over the top.

In order to exploit fully the low head of water, the axes of the turbines are not set vertically as in most hydroelectric installations, but are almost parallel with the direction of the current.

Refurbishing the Home—

Make an Inventory of Things to Be Replaced During the New Year

THE desire to start fresh at the beginning of a new year appeals to homemakers in connection with their home furnishings. There are two ways of bringing the desire into effect. One is by getting new things to replace worn out ones or to fill a hitherto long-felt need. The other is to refurbish the things already possessed. The combination of these two methods is the most practical way to instill that wanted appearance of freshness into rooms.

Making the Inventory

In order to do this successfully it is important to appreciate just what we have and what we have not. We can take an inventory of what requires doing over or replacing, and we can also jot down the new things we would like to get. By doing this we realize the degrees of importance attaching to each part of the job. This suggests a tabulating of the memoranda collected so that we attend to the matters of most importance first, and gradually work through them to those of lesser significance. Also it makes us realize that many of the things we desire can be taken care of at little or no cost.

Refurbishing

For example, a sofa cushion may need recovering. We know it, and have known it for some time, but have done nothing about it. When we determine to tackle the task, we may find we have something in the house that will be excellent to use, or, if not, we will be on the lookout when we go shopping to discover some material that is suitable and at a price we can afford.

New Things

When it comes to getting new things, new lamp shades, new furniture, and any of the many articles we most need, the clearance sales offer opportunities to get splendid values at reduced prices. We should take advantage of such sales, thereby making our homes more attractive for months, and perhaps years to come.

Pennsylvania Bossy and Her Triplets

THE RATS START A FIRE

RATS are born thieves. They not only steal food, but they carry off many other things, things for which they really have no use at all. Now it happened that one of the young rats in the farmhouse found some matches and took them to his nest under the floor of the shed. There, having nothing else to do, he nibbled at them to see what the queer stuff on the ends of them might be. His sharp teeth caused one of them to light, and of course that instantly lighted all the rest of them. With a squeak of fright the rat ran away, for like all the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows a rat fears the Red Terror, which we call fire, more than anything else.

Now that rat's nest was made chiefly of chewed up paper and old rags. Nothing could have been better for the Red Terror. It blazed instantly. The floor just above was of very, very dry wood, for the boards of that floor had been there many years. In no time at all that shed was afire.

All the rats under the floor fled in terror into the house. Smoke began to pour out of the open door of the shed. The farmer at work in the barnyard saw it and ran as fast as he could to try to put the fire out. For a while the farmer and his wife had a hard fight with the Red Terror. They pumped water as fast as ever they could and carried it in pails to throw on the fire. At first it looked as if the Red Terror would be too much for them and their house would be burned up, but after a while the water was too much for the Red Terror and drowned it out.

"Whew!" exclaimed the farmer as he and his wife sat down to rest for a moment. "That was a narrow escape. How under the sun could that fire have started?"

"I haven't the least idea," replied his wife. "I was upstairs at the time. There wasn't a thing in that shed that could have started it. Do you suppose anybody could have set it?"

The farmer shook his head. "No," said he, "that fire started under the floor." Then a sudden thought came to him. "I know how it started!" he cried angrily. "It was those pesky rats! It was those pesky rats as sure as I live. They must have found some matches somewhere and taken them to a nest under the floor. Then while they were nibbling at them they set one going. We've got to get rid of those rats or we won't have a house left over our heads. I don't know how we're going to do it, but we've got to get rid of those rats!"

FEEDING THE FAMILY

THIS seems to be the principal work of at least twenty million housewives, but feeding the family on the proper food is not a light job to be undertaken with no thought.

Food is not necessarily nutritious in proportion to its cost. The high-priced foods appeal to the eye and imagination, so they seem most desirable.

Going marketing is a wonderful education as well as a great developer of will power, or resistance to temptation, for it takes real self-denial to pass by the crisp and green cucumber or the box of strawberries, when the price is beyond the purse.

The mother of a family should, of all people, understand food values, for she is in a position to build up or tear down bodies and ruin digestions. "Bad habits ruin life as do weak bones the body."

The protein foods such as meat, eggs, fish, cheese and milk are the most expensive and complex. Carbohydrates are the starches and sugars; potatoes, rice, macaroni are our principal source of starch and the sugars we get from various sources — honey — from fruits and such vegetables as beets.

An excess of meat is very bad for it clogs the system and causes self-poisoning.

Brain workers and the young as well as aged need easily digested foods. Active muscle workers need coarse foods, which are better for their needs; however, all need roughage to give bulk and increase the intestinal activity.

The growing child needs milk, butter, eggs, green vegetables and fruits to supply all the food principles and the vitamins which promote growth.

The diet should be varied as well

ONE OF THOSE DAYS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

ONE of those days we just recall The heavy labor of it all, Behold our task with downcast eyes We once uplifted to the prize. One of those days we look too near The task to either see or hear The beauty of it—darkly gaze And say, "It's just one of those days."

One of those days the things unkind Come quickest to the weary mind, Forgotten all the joy we met, Remembered all we should forget. One of those days we see the past As something good that could not last.

The future something that delays Too long, and say, "One of those days."

One of those days. We know not why A cloud will visit any sky, But this we know, that not a one Has ever overcome the sun. One of these days we yet shall learn If nights descend that dawns return, And with that thought our souls so raise

We never know "one of those days."

THE LANGUAGE OF YOUR HAND

By Leicester K. Davis
© Public Ledger, Inc.

AS YOU progress in your understanding of the revelations of the hand, you will become more and more impressed with how well the builder of our destinies has given us each a preponderance of those qualities required to offset what otherwise might be a disastrous temperamental deficiency.

Thumb as Index of Logic vs. Will

The first two joints of the thumb, as you have learned, denote the balancing qualities of will and logic. One often is found to offset completely an almost hopeless deficiency in the other. For example, you may find a short, flexible nail joint denoting impulsiveness, extravagance and other undesirable reactions to environment quite neutralized by the greater-than-average length of the middle joint.

Or the reverse may be shown, in which case a naturally self-depreciating tendency to let things go because of mental laziness is stung to action and kept in working order by a stubborn will which refuses to submit to a temperamental defect.

son, but the true reasons are always in the subconscious mind—in the instincts — says Dr. Donald Laird in his valuable book "What Makes People Buy." Clothing and personal adornments are sold on the instinct to be admired and to attract attention; insurance on the instinctive fear of death; travel tours on the instinctive craving for romance; and automobiles on the instinct to show power and exhibit it through possessions. Everything we buy has an instinctive basis for its appeal, and most of us never realize this. An intelligent salesman studies these instincts and makes use of them.

Whistling Wildcat Is His House Pet

Negrito, reported to be the meanest house pet, rests partly on the chair and partly on the shoulder of his master, Harlan Major, of Amityville, N. Y., to pose for this photograph. Mr. Major purchased the animal, which is a member of the jaguar family, in Ecuador. It whistles instead of meowing and, although quite ferocious, has a strong affection for its master.

Offers New Opportunities

THE modern woman who sews is really an enviable person. She has at her finger-tips an endless array of fashions from which to choose for her own and her daughters' wardrobes. Today's trio affords her new opportunities in several size ranges; in fact, there's something here for the mature figure, size 42, right on down to the tiny tot who just manages to fill an "age 4."

Pattern 1987—This diminutive frock is for Miss Four - To-Twelve. Its easy lines, flaring skirt, and pretty sleeves are perhaps second only to its thru-the-machine-aptness, so far as the woman who sews is concerned. But this is all too obvious to mention. Better cut this pattern twice for all 'round practical reasons. It's intriguing in taffeta—a winner in gingham and linen. It comes in sizes 4, 6, 8, 10, and 12 years. Size 6 requires 1 1/2 yards of 39 inch material plus 3/4 yard contrasting.

Pattern 1211—It is a smart frock like this that will turn the most immune young lady into an ardent seamstress almost over night. And rightly so, for it's plain to see how becoming are its princess lines, how flattering the wide shoulders and slim waist, yes, and how spicy the swing skirt. A pretty and colorful motif can be had in the use of velvet for the buttons and belt. Monotone broadcloth, black or royal blue, with the collar and cuffs of white linen, is a startlingly chic material for this model. It is available in sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 40 bust). Size 14 requires 2 3/4 yards of 54 inch fabric plus 3/4 yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Pattern 1210—Which would you have, Madam, an artistic smock or a glamorous house coat? This pattern allows you to make this interesting choice and it has what you'll need to make either of the models illustrated here. The house coat has become womankind's most desired "at home" attire; so rather than be among the minority, why not turn your talents to this princess model—you'll have it complete in a mere few hours and think of the countless days it will stand you in good stead as a really good looking wardrobe asset. It is designed in sizes 14 to 20 (32 to 42 bust). Size 16 (in full length) requires 5 1/2 yards of 39 inch material plus 3/4 yards of bias piping and 1/4 yard contrasting material for pocket.

UNCLE SAM SHOULD PAY

Clearly, the problem of providing transient relief is a federal one. When states individually assume the burden, some states which have numerous citizens wandering over the country get off lightly, while others, even though a greater percentage of their population stays at home, are obliged to carry most of the load.

California, of course, is one of the "others." This state has had 16 per cent of all the transient families receiving relief, although California's population is only 4.7 per cent of that of the nation.

Our Legislature moved the other day to ask Uncle Sam to reimburse us, and to pay for all transient relief hereafter. Uncle Sam should come through.

Lights For Bayshore To Be Sought

Assurance came this week from state legislators residing at both terminations of the dangerous Bayshore highway that a bill to light the thoroughfare with non-glare, amber light pouring from centerline midge standards no higher than normal auto headlights would be introduced soon into the state legislature.

Assemblymen from San Jose and San Francisco are whipping into shape a bill to finance construction of such a lighting system, according to an announcement made recently.

"It will cost somewhere between $250,000 and $500,000 and will be the first of its kind in the United States."

EXTENDED ENTIRE LENGTH

Under present plans the lighting system would extend the entire distance from San Francisco to San Jose, through San Mateo County where 27 persons were fatally hurt in Bayshore highway accidents last year.

Miss Vujvich is being transferred from the San Pedro School to the Ravenswood School in Ravenswood. She is a capable teacher, and local residents express regret in losing her. The change is an advancement for Miss Vujvich. Best wishes are extended to her.

Miss Smith of Burlingame will fill the vacancy left by Miss Vujvich.

The George Olmos have returned, after a two-week visit to the city.

A slide in the terrace of the Bohr home, caused by the recent rains, had to be blocked and built up at once. Fred got into rough "togs" and worked like a tiger until the slide danger was over. "My friends," he explained, with a smile, "keep in condition by playing golf, but this road work is as good for me as a round on the links."

The Hector Martins were in Pedro on Sunday, making calls upon their friends and neighbors. They plan to come back soon to reside here.

Mrs. Jennie Bicknell spent Saturday in San Francisco.

Albert Boynton, of the Sun Tribune, made a brief visit to coasts towns Sunday afternoon, accompanied by two charming girls, who went for a horseback ride in the nearby hills, while ye editor was making some business calls.

Report states that the temperature in the highest of the Pedro homes dropped to 26 degrees during the recent cold spell. No wonder the water pipes froze!

Pat Dempsey is building a portico on his house, and doing a mighty good job of it, too.

A would be subscriber wants to know what is the smallest subscription he can take to the Sun-Tribune. That's easy. We can just sign him up for a single issue, in the interests of economy, and wish him a fatter purse in the future.

The Beeler driveway on Sunday afternoon looked as though Mrs. Beeler were having a social tea party. Mr. and Mrs. Andrews were two of the guests, and the Fenlons, mother and son, with other visitors whose names escape me.

A meeting was held by the Pedro Improvement Association on Thursday night at the Bloom store. Mrs. William Bailey and Mrs. Davies were present from Rockaway and Salada. Several interesting matters were discussed.

Clyde Graner, who has been ill with what he describes as "a touch of flu," might better have called it a "downright whack." He's better now, and at work, but his neighbors say he looked like a very sick man for a few days.

These frigid nights it's difficult to keep warm. One neighbor says, "I'm perfectly comfortable—I just take the hot-water bag and the cat to bed with me."

"Good neighbors" was the subject under discussion, with Harry Rees telling enthusiastically about Nick Conroy, and some of his kindly deeds to local residents in need of assistance. "Nick doesn't stop with this," Harry declared. "He's a good friend to all the kids, and all the dogs and other animals, too." So said Harry. This locality has many splendid kind neighbors—more than most places. Some day we're going to list a few, and relate the stories of their good deeds. They'll make interesting reading.

In addition to the 70 per cent of proceeds from ticket sales for the infantile paralysis fight, centered at Community Hospital, San Mateo, the county will get all profits from sale of sandwiches and at the bar Turkey and ham sandwiches will be offered.

Music for the dance will be furnished by Fred Lamb and his stellar orchestra from Redwood City, the committee of mayors in charge of the ball determined to keep the affair "inside San Mateo County as much as possible." A full floor show and entertainment program is also scheduled.

Arrangements for the hall were progressing rapidly under the direction of Mayor William I. Farmer of San Bruno and three Burlingame residents named to aid him. Full support of the county American Legion organization has been pledged to the ball by C. H. Whitney, district commander.

Urging generous support and co-operation by the public in the affair, Mayor C. A. Buck of Burlingame this week issued a public statement in which he declared:

"In our contributions we should consider it a worthy investment to be thus fortified to meet an emergency that calls for immediate action. Also the very liberal allowance of 70 per cent of the net receipts to be used in our county is a further reason why we should avail ourselves of this opportunity to help others and at the same time help ourselves."

Three Bayshore Deaths Unrecorded

County accidents, instead of three, died in San Francisco hospitals.

DEATH DATES TOLD

All of the "new" fatalities occurred on the Bayshore in the short mile stretch between Pacific Bone-Coal Company plant and Brisbane. They were Eibind J. Markussen, Mrs. Lena Graf and Carl Zahl, all of San Francisco.

Markussen was fatally injured on January 31 when his car rolled over near the entrance to the Hansen ranch. Mrs. Graf was fatally hurt when her car collided with a vehicle driven by Charles Maskell, 951 Bayshore highway, Burlingame. The accident took place one-half mile north of Brisbane. Mrs. Graf was taken to the South San Francisco Hospital and was later transferred to a San Francisco hospital where she died several days later. The accident occurred February 24.

"Bad Boy" Pleads Not Guilty To Break

Ray Lagomarsino of Daly City, former Alcatraz convict, Tuesday of this week, entered a plea of not guilty to a jail break charge. The prisoner walked out of the county jail at Redwood City on November 8 of last year and was not taken into custody again till late in December.

Trial was set by Superior Judge A. R. Cotton for February 17. Lagomarsino is being defended by Attorney Percy W. Jackson of Burlingame.

March 9, Zahl was fatally injured in a crash on Bayshore opposite the bone yard, less than a half mile from the county line. He also died in a San Francisco hospital, Leland revealed.

The survey by Bear and Michaels is conducted annually in San Mateo County with Bayshore highway being particularly stressed. Records of Coroner Leland were checked yesterday in the final step of the highly accurate survey.

CHAMP VALLEY BALL PLAYERS RECEIVE AWARDS

Team Members Given Rings And Gold Loving Cup Presented To Club

A large and enthusiastic crowd turned out to pay homage to the City Recreation League champions, Monday evening of this week, at the Visitacion Community Center. Team members were presented with suitably engraved rings by Baseball Commissioner Morris Sweeney, and a beautiful gold loving cup was awarded the club. Sweeney congratulated Manager Allan Bell and Daniel Harrington, who acted as advisor, upon their very successful season.

In spite of a severe cold, Lefty O'Doul, manager of the Seals, attended the rally and spoke briefly, reviewing his career in professional baseball and encouraging the youthful ball players. He emphasized the honesty of the game.

Following a short talk by Charles Fisenhut, president of the Center, the following program was presented:

Tap dance—Madeline & Bertha Landuit; Song—John Mullen; Accordion Solo—Guido Cinti; Spanish dance—Miss Grace Churcher; Piano presentation—Albert Albers; Skit—Fred Tilton, Henry Caverio, Lloyd Pauli and Eddie Walther.

BOXING

Bayshore Starts New Bank Night

William Del Monte, manager of the Bayshore theater, announces that new registration is required for eligibility to participate in bank nights at the show house.

After patrons register again in the lobby, the old bank night listings will be destroyed.

WINNERS

Mrs. Robert Booth of Mendocino street, Brisbane, recently won $50 at a bank night drawing. Mrs. Frank Garke was called for $75, but she was absent.

Daniel Harrington, prominent Visitacion resident is preparing a series of articles about the valley and old time athletes. His first article will appear on this page next week.

Mike Klotovich, a well known local boy who starred for the Mission High football team, will graduate next week. Mike comes from a family of athletes, all of whom have made or are making names for themselves.

The Visitacion Valley basketball team won from San Francisco State team, Friday evening of last week, 32-31. It was a hotly contested game and the result was in doubt until the final whistle.

The baseball champs, who won the pennant in the C Division will probably be entered in a faster division next season, according to Allan Bell, popular manager of the local boys. In the meantime, Bell will attempt to develop new talent by playing independent Sunday ball. Several of the players who have been participating in independent ball during the past season are about ready for faster company.

The free dance held at the Community Center Hall last evening was enjoyed by the usual large crowd. These dances are being received with more enthusiasm each time they are given. The Harlem Hot Shots furnished good music.

An exhibition of drawings, water colors and paintings is being shown at the Visitacion Valley Branch of the Public Library. The work is done by the art class which is held at the Community Center under the direction of Miss Pauline Zoloth. Much talent is displayed, and Miss Zoloth reports that the class has started work on a miniature circus, which will be modeled in clay, and will be exhibited at a later date.

Fern Leaf Appoints 1937 Committees

Fern Leaf Camp No. 808, Woodmen of the World, appointed committees for 1937 at a regular business meeting held Wednesday evening of this week.

Chairmen are Mrs. W. Miller, entertainment; L. Eisenbeis, refreshment; Thomas McQuade, whist; Charles Louis, Junior Woodmen; Fred Thorn, horse shoe league.

NEW OFFICERS

New camp officers recently installed are Dan Fields, past counsel commander; Miss Frances Evanson, counsel commander; Miss Betty Selmi, advisor lieutenant; Ralph Cook, escort; Louis Eisenbeis, banker; Miss Maxine Thorn, watchman; Carl Bresenbacker, sentry; A. Young and P. Hazelhurst, managers; Charles A. Louis, clerk.

A past counsel medal was presented to A. J. Brown. Installing officer was Assistant District Manager Mrs. L. Vannucci. She was assisted by Past Counsel Fred Detmering.

After the meeting, Wednesday evening of this week, a Dutch whist was held.

BAYSHORE LOCALS

Benny Ford, Edgar Riley, Harold Parker and Jack Cain, grooms at the Bayshore dog track, journeyed to Oakland recently where they acted as pallbearers for Sonnie Kurtz, another groom who was accidentally shot while hunting, Friday of last week.

Bayshore firemen rendered first aid to several persons injured in an automobile wreck on the Bayshore highway near Brisbane Sunday evening of last week.

Bayshore firemen further acted as good Samaritans, Sunday morning of last week, when they flushed out the sewers on Rio Verde street and washed away the mud that had been carried down from the Stock Pavilion grounds by recent rains. The blockade had created a serious hazard to traffic. Residents give the fire boys much credit for many hours of volunteer work done by them for the benefit of the district.

Many persons of Bayshore have been sick with the flu. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Pierce, Jack Byrnes and Phillip Hughes Jr. Mrs. Plumb reports a large number of pupils absent because of the epidemic.

The Bayshore P. T. A. held its last study circle at the home of Mrs. Bea

Local Girl Leads Amateur Production

Fred Enderlin, director of the Visitacion Players, announced today that Miss Carol Godfrey will play one of the female leads in the forthcoming production "Believe It or Not."

Miss Godfrey, who has been actively connected with the Community Center for many years, is well known to the residents of Visitacion Valley. She is a local girl and has a serious concern for her future and the welfare of this community.

Those who have followed the amateur dramatic group in San Francisco will remember her thrilling portrayal of Mamie Harris in "The Tightwad" and her hilarious treatment of the character of Bridget O'Rourke in "Square Crooks." She is confidently expected to win new and additional praise from the critics and audiences in "Believe It Or Not."

Opening Planned For Bonvitas Club

A grand opening is planned Saturday evening of next week, for the new Bonvitas Club hall at 111 Raymond avenue, Visitacion Valley.

The organization, a recreational club for men, has arranged entertainment, games and dancing for the opening affair. Guests are invited.

Valley Players Win Game and Lose One

By George Kovacevich

Visitacion Valley Basket Ball Team broke even in a double header, Friday evening of last week, at the Community Center hall. Precita won the first game, 29-20.

In the main event of the evening, a rough and tumble affair, Visitacion took a close decision over Precita, 29-22.

Jimmy Coen and Norman Castellano starred for the locals. Sam Bruno and Nick Manuels officiated.

Jeppessen. Mrs. Jeppessen served lunch to the ladies at noon after which they tied another quilt for Mrs. Helt.

The GARDEN MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE

Copyright S. S. Van Dine WNU Service

SYNOPSIS

Philo Vance, famous detective and John F. X. Markham, district attorney for New York county are dining in Vance's apartment when Vance receives an anonymous telephone message informing him of a "disturbing psychological tension at Professor Ephraim Garden's apartment" advising that he read up on radio-active sodium, consult a passage in the Aeneid and counseling that "Equanimity is essential." Professor Garden is famous in chemical research. The message, decoded by Vance, reminds him that Professor Garden's son Floyd and his puny cousin, Woodie Swift, are addicted to horse-racing.

"You know this Floyd Garden well?"

Vance nodded. "Fairly well. He's a member of the Far Meadows club and I've often played polo with him. He's a five-goaler and owns a couple of the best ponies in the country. I tried to buy one of them from him once—but that's beside the point. The fact is, young Garden, has invited me on several occasions to join him and his little group at the apartment when the out-of-town races were on. It seems he has a direct loud-speaker service from all the tracks, like many of the horse fanatics. The professor disapproves, in a mild way, but he raises no serious objections because Mrs. Garden is rather inclined to sit in and take her chances on a horse now and then."

"Have you ever accepted his invitation?" asked Markham.

"No," Vance told him. Then he glanced up with a far-away look in his eyes. "But I think it might be an excellent idea."

"Come, come, Vance!" protested Markham. "Even if you see some cryptic relationship between the disconnected items of this message you've just received, how, in the name of Heaven, can you take it seriously?"

Vance drew deeply on his cigarette and waited a moment before answering. "You have overlooked one phrase in the message: 'Equanimity is essential,' he said at length. 'One of the great race-horses of today happens to be named Equanimity. He belongs in the company of such immortals of the turf as Man o' War, Exterminator, Gallant Fox, and Reigh Count. Furthermore, Equanimity is running in the Rivermont Handicap tomorrow.'"

"Still I see no reason to take the matter seriously," Markham objected.

Vance ignored the comment and added "Moreover, Doctor Miles Siefert told me at the club the other day that Mrs. Garden had been quite ill for some time with a mysterious malady."

Markham shifted in his chair and broke the ashes from his cigar.

"The affair gets more muddled by the minute," he remarked irritably. "What's the connection between all these commonplace data and that precious phone message of yours?" He waved his hand contemptuously toward the paper which Vance still held.

"I happen to know," Vance answered slowly, "who sent me this message."

"Ah, yes?" Markham was obviously skeptical.

"Quite. It was Doctor Siefert."

Markham showed a sudden interest. "Would you care to enlighten me as to how you arrived at this conclusion?" he asked in a satirical voice.

"It was not difficult," Vance answered, rising and standing before the empty hearth, with one arm resting on the mantel. "To begin with, I was not called to the telephone personally. Why? Because it was some one I know. To continue, the language of the message bears the earmarks of the medical profession. 'Psychological tension' and 'resists diagnosis' are not phrases ordinarily used by the layman, although they consist of commonplace enough words. To go another step; the message obviously assumes that I am more or less acquainted with the Garden household and the race-track passion of young Garden. Therefore, we get the results that the sender of the message is a doctor whom I know and one who is aware of my acquaintance with the Gardens. The only doctor who fulfills these conditions, and who, incidentally, is middle-aged and cultured and highly judicial—Currie's description, y'know—is Miles Siefert. And, added to this simple deduction, I happen to know that Siefert is a Latin scholar—I once encountered him at the Latin society club-rooms. Another point in my favor is the fact that he is the family physician of the Gardens and would have ample opportunity to know about the galloping horses—and perhaps about Equanimity in particular—in connection with the Garden household."

"That being the case," Markham protested, "why don't you phone him and find out exactly what's back of his cryptography?"

"My dear Markham—oh, my dear Markham! Siefert would not only indignantly repudiate any knowledge of the message, but would automatically become the first obstacle in any bit of prying I might decide to do. The ethics of the medical profession are most fantastic; and Siefert, as becomes his unique position, is a fanatic on the subject. From the fact that he communicated with me in this roundabout way I rather suspect that some grotesque point of honor is involved. Perhaps his conscience overcame him for the moment, and he temporarily relaxed his adherence to what he considers his code of honor. No, no, that course wouldn't do at all. I must ferret out the matter for myself—as he undoubtedly wishes me to do."

"But what is this matter that you feel called upon to ferret out?" persisted Markham. "Granting all you say, I still don't see how you can regard the situation as in any way serious."

"One never knows, does one?" drawled Vance. "Still, I'm rather fond of the horses myself, don't y'know."

Markham seemed to relax and fitted his manner to Vance's change of mood.

"And what do you propose to do?" he asked good naturedly.

Vance looked up whimsically. "The public prosecutor of New York—that noble defender of the rights of the common people—to wit: the Honorable John F. X. Markham—must grant me immunity and protection before I'll consent to answer."

Markham's eyelids drooped a little as he studied Vance. He was familiar with the serious import that often lay beneath the other's most frivolous remarks.

"Are you planning to break the law?" he asked.

"Oh, yes—quite," he admitted nonchalantly. "Jailable offense, I believe."

Markham studied him for another moment.

"All right," he said, without the slightest trace of lightness. "I'll do what I can for you. What's it to be?"

Vance took another sip of the Napoleon.

"Well, Markham old dear," he announced with a half smile, "I'm going to the Gardens' penthouse tomorrow afternoon and play the horses with the younger set."

As soon as Markham had left us that night, Vance's mood changed. A troubled look came into his eyes, and he walked up and down the room pensively.

"I don't like it, Van," he murmured, as if talking to himself. "I don't at all like it. Siefert isn't the type to make a mysterious phone call like that, unless he has a very good reason for doing so. It's quite out of character, don't y'know. He's a dashed conservative chap, and no end ethical. There must be something worrying him deeply. But why the Gardens' apartment? The domestic atmosphere there has always struck me as at least superficially normal—and now a man as dependable as Siefert gets jittery about it to the extent of indulging in shillin'-shocker technique. It's deuced queer."

He stopped pacing the floor and looked at the clock.

"I think I'll make the arrangements. A bit of snooping is highly indicated."

He went into the anteroom, and a moment later I heard him dialing a number on the telephone. When he returned to the library he seemed to have thrown off his depression. His manner was almost flippant.

"We're in for an abominable lunch tomorrow, Van," he announced, pouring himself another pony of cognac. "And we must torture ourselves with the viands at a most undignified hour—noon. What a time to ingest even good food!" He sighed. "We're lunching with young Garden at his home. Woodie Swift will be there and also an insufferable creature named Lowe Hammle, a horsey gentleman from some obscure estate on Long Island. Later we'll be joined by various members of the sporting set, and together we'll indulge in that ancient and fascinating pastime of laying wagers on the thoroughbreds."

He rang for Currie and sent him out to fetch a copy of the Morning Telegraph.

"One should be prepared. Oh, quite. It's been years since I handicapped the horses."

Although I was well aware that Vance had some serious object in lunching with young Garden the following day and in participating in the gambling on the races, I had not the slightest suspicion, at the time, of the horrors that were to follow. On the afternoon of April 14 occurred the first grim act of one of the most atrocious multiple crimes of this generation. And to Doctor Siefert must go, in a large measure, the credit for the identification of the criminal, for had he not sent his cryptic and would-be anonymous message to Vance, the truth would probably never have been known.

I shall never forget that fatal Saturday afternoon. And aside from the brutal Garden murder, that afternoon will always remain memorable for me because it marked the first mature sentimental episode, so far as I had ever observed, in Vance's life. For once, the cold impersonal attitude of his analytical mind melted before the appeal of an attractive woman.

CHAPTER II

Shortly before noon the next day we arrived at Professor Garden's beautiful skyscraper apartment, and were cordially, and a little exuberantly, greeted by young Garden.

Floyd Garden was a man in his early thirties, erect and athletically built. He was about six feet tall, with powerful shoulders and a slender waist. His hair was almost black, and his complexion swarthy. His manner, while easy and casual, and with a suggestion of swagger, was in no way offensive. He was not a handsome man: his features were too rugged, his eyes set too close together, his ears protruded too much, and his lips were too thin. But he had an undeniable charm, and there was a quiet submerged competency in the way he moved and in the rapidity of his mental reactions.

"There are only five of us for lunch, Vance," he remarked breezily. "The old gentleman is fussing with his test-tubes and Bunsen burners at the university; the mater is having a grand time playing sick. But Pop Hammle is coming—rum old bird, but a good sport; and we'll also be burdened with beloved cousin Woodie. You know Swift, I believe, Vance. Queer crab, Woody."

He pondered a moment with a wry face. "Can't figure out just how he fits into this household. Dad and the mater seem inordinately fond of him—sorry for him, perhaps; or maybe he's the kind of serious, sensitive guy they wish I'd turned out to be. I don't dislike Woodie, but we have little in common except the horses. Only, he takes his betting too seriously to suit me—he hasn't much money, and his wins or losses mean a lot to him. Of course, he'll go broke in the end."

Vance had been watching Garden covertly during this rambling recital of domestic intimacies.

"I know you hate mysteries, and there's apt to be some funny things happening here this afternoon," Garden continued. "Woodie has been acting queer for the past couple of weeks, as if some secret sorrow was gnawing at his mind."

"Any specific psychopathic symptoms?" Vance asked lightly. "No-o." Garden pursed his lips and frowned thoughtfully. "But he's developed a curious habit of going upstairs to the roof-garden as soon as he's placed a large bet, and he remains there alone until the result of the race has come through."

"Nothing very unusual about that," Vance made a deprecatory motion with his hand. "Many gamblers, d'ye see, are like that."

"You're probably right," Garden admitted reluctantly. "But I wish he'd bet moderately, instead of plunging like a fool whenever he's hot for a horse."

"By the by," asked Vance, "why do you particularly look for strange occurrences this afternoon?" Garden shrugged. "The fact is," he replied, after a short pause, "Woodie's been losing heavily of late, and today's the day of the big Rivermont Handicap. I have a feeling he's going to put every dollar he's got on Equanimity, who'll undoubtedly be the favorite with undisguised contempt. 'That rail-lugger! Probably the second greatest horse of modern times—but what's the use?'"

He looked up solemnly. "And that, Vance, means trouble if Equanimity doesn't come in. It means a blow-up of some kind. I've felt it coming for over a week. It's got me worried. To tell you the truth, I'm glad you picked this day to sit in with us."

"Very interesting situation," commented Vance. "I agree in the main with what you say regarding Equanimity. But I think you're too harsh, and I'm not convinced that he's a rail-lugger because of any innate passion for wood... But as you were sayin', the psychological situation hereabout has you worried. I gather there's a super-charged atmosphere round this charmin' aerie."

"That's it, exactly," Garden answered almost eagerly. "Super-charged is right. Nearly every day the mater asks, 'How's Woody?' And when the old gentleman comes home from his lab at night he greets me with a left-handed 'Well, my boy, have you seen Woody today?'"

Vance made no comment on these remarks. Instead he asked in a peculiarly flat voice: "Do you consider this recent hyper-tension in the household due entirely to your cousin's financial predicament and his determination to risk all he has on the horses?"

Garden started slightly and then settled back in his chair. "No, damn it!" he answered a little vehemently. "And that's another thing that bothers me. A lot of the golliwogs we're harboring are due to Woodie's cuckoo state of mind, but there are other queer invisible animals springing up and down the corridors. I can't figure it out. The mater's illness doesn't make sense either. And there's funny business of some kind going on among the gang that drifts in here nearly every afternoon to play the races."

Home Heating Hints

By John Barclay Heating Expert

IT'S easy to regulate a furnace fire to meet the requirements of daily temperature changes. All you need to do is to understand the functioning of the check and ashpit dampers.

Check Damper—a flap-like damper, which should be located in the chimney pipe between the turn damper and the chimney. When it's open, it slows up the burning speed of the fire; closed, it quickens the speed.

Ashpit Damper—located below the grates and controls the amount of air supplied to the fire.

To produce the best results, these dampers should work together—when one is open the other should be closed, and vice versa. In mild weather, when a slow, lasting fire is needed, the check damper should be wide open and the ashpit damper closed. When more heat is needed, the check damper should be partly closed, the ashpit damper partly open. For extremely cold weather, the check damper should be closed tight, the ashpit damper wide open.

The proper use of these two dampers insures the proper degree of heat at all times on a minimum amount of fuel.

one of the objectives for this administration.

Progress in recovery is obvious, the President said, but the "new order of things" brought about since 1933 means more than that.

FUTURE BRIGHTER

The American people are using new materials of social justice "to erect on the old foundations a more enduring structure for the use of future generations."

Chief Justice Hughes administered the oath of office just prior to the inaugural address. With justices of the Supreme Court in his hearing, Roosevelt spoke again of the Constitution, but said nothing of the courts.

This year marks the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the fundamental charter.

FREEDOM'S BASE

American pioneers used the constitution to establish order out of the chaos which followed the Revolutionary War.

"They created a strong government with powers of united action sufficient then and now to solve problems utterly beyond individual or local solution. A century and a half ago they established the federal government in order to promote the general welfare and secure the blessings of liberty to the American people."

"Today we invoke those same powers of government to achieve the same objectives."

The greatest change in recent eventful years was "the change in the moral climate of America," Roosevelt said.

STEADY PROGRESS

"With this change in our moral climate and our rediscovered ability to improve our economic order," he observed, "we have set our feet upon the road of enduring progress."

"Shall we pause now and turn our back upon the road that lies ahead?" "Shall we call this the promised land?"

"Or shall we continue on our way?"

COUNTY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS ASK AID OF STATE

Appropriation Is Sought For Widening Of El Camino Real South Of City Of Redwood

San Mateo County projects had been included in the highway commission tentative new budget.

San Mateo County, he declared was one of five counties in the state which had been ignored. He urged the board to take forceful action to secure allocations for the El Camino Real widening, extension of Junipero Serra boulevard and completion of the Ocean Shore highway.

Marshall cited statistics to show that on the basis of population San Mateo County should have received an allocation of at least $845,000.

James said he agreed that the board should take action to secure an appropriation from the State Highway Commission, but declared "it would be fatal to base its argument on a population basis."

EXPLAINS PROCEDURE

He stated that funds are allocated on the basis of highway needs rather than in proportion to population.

Marshall's letter to the board, criticizing the highway commission budget, has aroused unfavorable comment, James said. The Burlingame supervisor urged the board to act through the state chamber which at a meeting last week, pledged support to the El Camino Real project.

Supervisor Fred E. Beer of San Carlos, presiding in the absence of Chairman Smith who was ill with a severe cold, upheld James' argument. He said that at the state chamber regional meeting Col. John H. Skeggs, highway department engineer, had declared that appropriations were on the basis of public necessity.

CITES HAZARD

Beer argued that rather than seek an allocation on the grounds of population, the county should take the stand that a hazard will be created with completion of the present work on El Camino Real when a four-lane highway will merge into a two-lane thoroughfare in Redwood City. Although it may not be possible to secure a million dollar allocation for widening El Camino Real to the Santa Clara County line, the board should seek funds for widening the highway as far as Five Points in the opinion of Beer. It is estimated that improvement would cost approximately $500,000.

Marshall told the board he was aware that appropriations were not made on a population basis but urged them to remember that San Mateo County and four small counties were the only ones among the state's 58 counties that had been omitted in the $27,000,000 program.

TOO "UNANIMOUS"

The board approved James' motion to refer Marshall's report to the highway committee with instructions to attend the highway committee meeting of the state chamber in Salinas.

James voiced objection to Marshall's argument a short time after commenting on the unanimity with which the board acted.

"Sometimes I think we're too unanimous, not a unanimous vote has been cast at this meeting," James said.

The supervisors adopted resolutions annexing the Half Moon Bay and Jefferson high school districts to the San Mateo Junior college district. An election on annexation of the Sequoia and South San Francisco districts will be held on February 2 as a result of protests.

CIVIL SERVICE PLAN

S. M. St. John of 33 East Santa Inez avenue, San Mateo, submitted a suggestion for a civil service plan for appointment of subordinates in county offices. He proposed preference for San Mateo County residents in making future appointments and selection of appointees, in cases not covered by charter provisions, by examination to be conducted by department heads or some other method. He did not favor creation of a civil service commission.

Supervisor James declared there was "some meat" in the suggestion. On his motion action was delayed until appointment of a new county executive.

past few years. It was formerly thought, he said, that everyone carried the germs of the disease, ready to break into activity when the body became run down. Today, it is known that only about one-third of the people carry these germs and that the disease is not hereditary, but is contracted through long association with an infected person. He described the tuberculin test, which discloses whether or not living tuberculosis germs are in the body.

Dr. Bush showed a film, "Behind the Shadow," and an informative display of charts, pamphlets and books gave members definite help in understanding the disease.

Dr. Murphy, San Mateo, explained the new arrangements for prevention of tuberculosis in San Mateo County, with money from the sale of Christmas seals to be used to give the tuberculin test to high school students, commencing very shortly.

Mrs. C. A. Andrews, San Mateo, director of the Seventeenth District, C. C. P. T., department of health, introduced Doctors Bush and Murphy and later presented her chairman—Mrs. A. T. Hollingsworth, Colma; Mrs. J. M. Foley, Mrs. T. E. Drisko, San Mateo; and Mrs. Ray Boulton, Millbrae.

Plans for the new San Mateo Junior College were illustrated and discussed by Mrs. L. G. Owen, school trustee San Mateo Union High School and Junior College District, who held that the advantages of a county-wide Junior college are to afford a better education at less cost to taxpayers.

W. T. VanVorss, principal of Burlingame High School, spoke briefly on possibilities of making highways more safe. Community singing was led by Mrs. Alfred Harris, Millbrae.

Opening the afternoon session, Betty Boulton, Eleanor Rankin, Dorothy Fortenberry and Beverly Leggett, girl scouts, gave a first-aid demonstration.

Consider Executive Applications Soon

Proposal to hold a preliminary conference to discuss applications for the position of county executive was made at the Board of Supervisors meeting, Monday of this week.

Supervisor James suggested that the board hold the conference prior to the February 1 meeting when applications will come up officially for consideration.

Applications of O. E. Fisher, Santa Cruz railroad executive, and Richard E. Savage of Redwood City, state railroad commission engineer, were filed with seven others at the board session Monday.

The board transacted other business as follows:

Referred to the planning commission the proposal of Cleve F. Shaffer that the Southern Pacific extend its line to the Plan X terminal in San Francisco as a solution to the Peninsula rapid transit problem.
